- Your class will have online delivery via Zoom with a dedicated virtual classroom day and time.
- You and your classmates connect with the instructor at the same time in the virtual classroom space, participating in class lectures, discussions and presentations.
- These classes are like regular in-person classes with faculty and class interaction, but online.

- You complete coursework online and connect to your classmates and instructor without having to login during specific days or times.
- You work on your own time to meet deadlines and maintain course participation through online discussions and activities.
- These classes are ideal for students who are self-motivated and can independently manage their time.

- For students seeking an in-person learning experience for general education courses, a limited number of options will be available.
- All courses will follow appropriate social distancing measures.
- Learning that requires labs will occur in these 8-week sessions.

- CLC’s new Flex Path classes work with your schedule. Study online and meet in-person on a consistent day and time.
- Evening and weekend classes offered in both 8- and 16-week terms.
- Whether you’re looking to take a class or two at a time, enroll in a career or technical program or plan to complete a transfer degree at CLC or beyond—we’ve got you covered!

NEW OPPORTUNITY TO EARN AN ABA APPROVED LEGAL STUDIES CERTIFICATE WITH VIRTUAL, BLENDED AND ONLINE CLASSES

Has your busy schedule stood in the way of pursuing your passion to become a paralegal? There’s good news! Starting this fall, you can begin taking CLC legal studies courses through the college’s Super-charged Saturdays program.

CLC’s forward-thinking legal studies department has great experience leveraging technology in their classes. Through a combination of blended classes that meet on Saturdays and online courses, you can begin in August 2020 and complete the legal studies certificate by December 2021.

“Digital communication skills are important for success in the legal profession, and our instructors provide the instruction needed from day one,” said Gayle Miller, chair of the legal studies program. “We have consistently prepared our students for job search, interviewing, national competency exams and networking via digital platforms.”

After graduating from CLC, Melissa Jurik went on to attend Roosevelt University in 2013. She has excelled as a professional for several Chicago law offices, currently specializing in general litigation and employment law as an insurance defense paralegal. Jurik was recently elected president of the Illinois Paralegal Association.

“I attribute my success as a paralegal not only to the education I received from the amazing teachers in the paralegal program, but from the other teachers and advisors at CLC as well. Being involved in clubs and organizations can teach you almost as much as the classes themselves by teaching you ‘soft skills’ you may not learn in the classroom.”
– Melissa Jurik, legal studies alumna

CHANGING lives.

MASSAGE THERAPY CLASSES CONTINUE THIS FALL

There's nothing that can replace the hands-on learning hours taught at CLC, especially in Southlake's popular Massage Therapy program. That's why in-person classes will continue this fall—students can complete their certificates and enter the workforce knowing how to remain flexible in the COVID-19 environment. In small groups and while wearing proper personal protective equipment, massage therapy students will practice a variety of massage techniques as they prepare to sit for their federal MBLEX licensing exam, a requirement to apply for licensure in Illinois and most other states.
