ADULT SERVICES

(Associate in Applied Science) Plan 25HC

Do you find great reward in helping others? Social and human service assistants play many roles in the community to help people improve their quality of life. Working under the supervision of a social worker or clinician, these professionals assist clients in need of counseling, crisis intervention and community service. Social and human service assistants also lead group activities and help clients become involved in community recreation programs.

Our Human Services program prepares students for entry and middle-level positions in agencies and programs specialized in helping people. Examples include nursing homes, community human service programs, institutions for the developmentally disabled, organizations with programs for adolescents and adults provided through hospitals, as well as treatment programs for addiction and substance abuse.
